The following questions are inquiries addressing recent mental health and substance abuse or psychological dependency matters. The purpose of these questions is to determine the current character and fitness of an applicant's ability to practice law. Although the Character and Fitness Committee believes that inquiry into these areas is a necessary part of the character and fitness review process, treatment of substance abuse, mental health or psychological problems does not in and of itself disqualify an applicant from the practice of law in Kentucky. The Committee on Character and Fitness routinely certifies individuals for admission who have demonstrated personal responsibility and maturity in dealing with substance abuse, mental health or psychological matters.

The Committee does not, by its questions, seek information that is fairly characterized as situational counseling. Examples of situational counseling include stress counseling, domestic counseling, grief counseling, and counseling for eating or sleeping disorders. Generally, the Committee does not view these types of counseling as germane to the issue of whether an applicant is qualified to practice law. On occasion a license is denied or deferred when an applicant's ability to function is impaired in a manner relevant to the practice of law at the time that the licensing decision is made, or when an applicant demonstrates a lack of candor by his or her responses. This is consistent with the public purpose that underlies the licensing responsibilities assigned to the Board of Bar Examiners; further, each applicant is responsible for demonstrating that he or she possesses all the qualifications to practice law.
